

Stefan Barcsay

Born in Wuerzburg.

He studied guitar at the University of the (Fine) Arts in Berlin (Peter Schimanski) and attended numerous master seminars/lectures (courses) of Prof. H. Teuchert, K. Ragossnig, A. Gilardino, I. Turnagoel, O. van Gonissen, and many more.

He taught at several music schools (Berlin, Baden-Wuerttemberg) and at the University of Augsburg. Currently, he is a teacher at the professional school for music in Krumbach/Schwaben.

Additionally, he is working with students of different music schools in several projects.

He is also active as a judge at “Jugend musiziert” and other competitions.

Besides his educational activities, Stefan Barcsay is also devoted to live performances. He not only performs as a soloist, but also as a member of chamber music ensembles in Germany and abroad (Albany, Austria, Czech Republic, Hungary, Iceland, Switzerland).

He has successfully organized a yearly guitar festival (“Krumbacher Gitarrentage”) which includes concerts of famous artists as well as seminars and workshops.

Stefan Barcsay is a leading member of a “music relief project” in Albany which he organized in cooperation with the Bavarian Music Fund and the German Music Board.

He is also member of the executive board of the Musicians’ Association Augsburg.

He took part in the film “Die wunderbaren Jahre” (the wonderful years) by Rainer Kunze and contributed music to the video film “Wanderlust” (wanderlust) by Michael Runschke.

2010 sponsored by the Kurt and Felicitas Viermetz foundation.

CD release 2010: Silent Mountain, pieces for guitar solo by Leo Brouwer, Manuel de Falla, Alan Rawsthorne, Lennox Berkeley, Fernando Sor and Qu Xiao-Song (world premiere recording)
